

Fair Rents (Scotland) Bill

Introduction

A proposal for a Bill to protect private sector tenants by introducing measures to limit rent increases and to increase the availability of information about rent levels. The consultation runs from 15 May 2019 to 6 August 2019. All those wishing to respond to the consultation are strongly encouraged to enter their responses electronically through this survey. This makes collation of responses much simpler and quicker. However, the option also exists of sending in a separate response (in hard copy or by other electronic means such as e-mail), and details of how to do so are included in the member's consultation document. Questions marked with an asterisk (*) require an answer. All responses must include a name and contact details. Names will only be published if you give us permission, and contact details are never published – but we may use them to contact you if there is a query about your response. If you do not include a name and/or contact details, we may have to disregard your response. Please note that you must complete the survey in order for your response to be accepted. If you don't wish to complete the survey in a single session, you can choose "Save and Continue later" at any point. Whilst you have the option to skip particular questions, you must continue to the end of the survey and press "Submit" to have your response fully recorded. Please ensure you have read the consultation document before responding to any of the questions that follow. In particular, you should read the information contained in the document about how your response will be handled. Aim and approach - rent cap

Q1. Which of the following best expresses your view of capping private sector rent increases annually across Scotland at one percentage point above inflation (measured according to the Consumer Price Index (CPI))?

Fully supportive

Please explain the reasons for your response.

Rent rises, especially in the capital, are used as a way to force tenants out of parts of the city and out of property, particularly if a landlord does not want to undertake appropriate improvement or maintenance work. There is also a severe housing shortage in the rental market in Edinburgh, meaning rents can skyrocket as demand goes up while supply, due to the prevalence of short term lets, holiday lets, and expensive but poor quality housing making the market a captive one for landlords.

Rent level appeals

Q2. Which of the following best expresses your view of providing that, when tenants appeal their rent, rent officers and the First-tier Tribunal would be able to either lower or maintain the rent but not increase the rent?

Fully supportive

Please explain the reasons for your response.

Rent should not be increased beyond what a landlord and a tenant have already agreed to prior to an appeal.

Landlord registration scheme

Q3. Which of the following best expresses your view of expanding the landlord registration scheme so that landlords must input the rent that they charge when they register, and update the system when the rent changes?

Fully supportive

Please explain the reasons for your response.

There is very little transparency with landlords and letting agencies. There should be a clear paper trail of how rent has increased over time at a property, particularly to help future tenants decide if a landlord is opportunistic or simply following inflation or has improved the property to justify a rent increase.

Other options - Rent Pressure Zones

Q4. Which of the following best expresses your view of tackling the problem of rents rising significantly faster than inflation by making it easier for a local authority to apply to create a Rent Pressure Zone (RPZ)?

Fully supportive

Please explain the reasons for this response.

Rent controls are a necessity in the modern day due to the percentage of those renting compared to buying.

Financial implications

Q5. Taking account of both costs and potential savings, what financial impact would you expect the proposed Bill to have on:

	Significant increase in cost	Some increase in cost	Broadly cost-neutral	Some reduction in cost	Significant reduction in cost	Unsure
Government and the public sector		X
Businesses (including landlords)	X
Individuals (including tenants)				X

Please explain the reasons for your response.

The government is likely to see a lot of appeals, landlords will lose out on sky-high rents, tenants should see decreases in their rent or at worst, a maintaining of their rent as a proportion of their income compared to inflation.

Q6. Are there ways in which the Bill could achieve its aim more cost-effectively (e.g. by reducing costs or increasing savings)?

Making the appeal system initially online, and deterring landlords from rising rent by setting out clear rules as to what constitutes an unfair rent rise along with fines for breaking those rules.

Equalities

Q7. What overall impact is the proposed Bill likely to have on equality, taking account of the following protected characteristics (under the Equality Act 2010): age, disability, gender re-assignment, maternity and pregnancy, marriage and civil partnership, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation?

Slightly positive

Please explain the reasons for your response.

The most vulnerable people are the most likely to be exploited by landlords. Rent increases and unfair evictions are the most common ways of doing this, and therefore clamping down on the former will help vulnerable people avoid exploitation.

Q8. In what ways could any negative impact of the Bill on equality be minimised or avoided?

There needs to be a clear understanding that this cannot be used to raise rents unnecessarily. Simply limiting rent increases may just allow landlords to make the maximum, penalty free increase every year which will affect the poorest and most vulnerable the most.

Sustainability

Q9. Do you consider that the proposed Bill can be delivered sustainably, i.e. without having likely future disproportionate economic, social and/or environmental impacts?

Yes

General

Q10. Do you have any other comments or suggestions on the proposal?

If enacted, it must be publicised and promoted widely and must not be fudged to allow landlords wiggle room to get away with not complying or by giving them the opportunity to increase rent through other ways without checks.
